Coffee-style Pinotage is a unique and proudly South African innovation. The combination of well toasted oak for a few months and the characteristic Pinotage fruit flavours, create a style of red wine that has richly layered coffee and chocolate flavours, balanced by ripe red berry fruit. This style has attracted an enormous following in South Africa and abroad in recent years. Hence the name being a play on the words pinotage and cappuccino, the espresso-based coffee drink originating from Italy.

THE RAILWAY LINE

The Railway Line evokes memories of travelling along the Cape Peninsula taking in the sights and sounds of the Cape that stretch all along its 40 km route. From the heart of the City all the way to Simonstown in the “deep south”, the train tracks map the growth and history of Cape. Easing its way through the suburbs that hug Table Mountain, then diving, straight as an arrow towards the coast and Muizenberg, the railway line then hugs the rugged coastline taking in the sights and sounds of St Jame’s iconic beach huts, Kalk Bays’ fishing harbour, before skirting the False Bay coastline and arriving at Simonstown, the home of South Africa’s navy, formally settled in 1743.

Originating in Germany, the word “Hinterland”, directly translated as “the land behind” (a city or port), was first used in English in 1888 by renowned cartographer, George Chishom, and describes the land outside of the Cape settlement. Stretching away from the coast, this landscape of rolling hills and farmland gives way to vineyards and broad vistas of the famous “Blue Mountains” that border the region where we source our wines from. A myriad of small hills and valleys, large imposing rock faces, and interspersed with two main river valleys, the Hinterland of the Cape is famous for wines of distinction and elegance.

This nostalgic journey is something we wish you to experience when enjoying our wines. A single record is called a 45, the number of times per minute that the record rotates around the turntable—and 45 minutes is about the time it should take you to catch up with your family and friends over this bottle of wine. Enjoy.
